

I strongly oppose the weakening of the current rules regarding ownership of multiple media sources. I urge you to keep the current rules intact or even consider making them stronger in order to prevent one person or organization from controlling too much of the media market in one location. It is in the public's best interest to maintain a healthy separation of media sources.